

Facultad de Arquitectura,
Diseño y Urbanismo
Depto de DOC. y BIBLIOTECA

317

8
Legislate to innovate
Jay Morton of Bell Phillips Architects calls for political and regulatory action to accelerate the adoption and development of low-carbon and zero-carbon construction methods

10
Rethinking heritage
Robert Adam urges heritage bodies and architects to embrace a design approach that evolves, rather than contrasts with, the architectural language of listed buildings when making environmental improvements

12
Learning from Noguchi
The work of Isamu Noguchi is a reminder that the best designers are inspired by life experience, travel, and a willingness to step outside their comfort zone, says cultural critic Yuki Sumner

14
Still standing
Ian Volner explores how I.M. Pei's Bank of China Tower overcame major site challenges and political controversies to become a Hong Kong icon

16
In practice
Sarah Griffiths and Martin Williams photographed by Timothy Soar

Forum

20
Narbo Via
Alessandra Fanari enjoys the ambiguities of Foster + Partners' museum of Roman antiquities in Narbonne, France, where the distinction between architecture and exhibits is decidedly blurred

34
The Lyth Building
Sue and Mark Emms take a tour around Evans Vettori's contextually and spatially sophisticated student hub and Environment Centre at Nottingham Trent University

46
Studio Voltaire
Nana Biamah-Oforu admires Matheson Whiteley's ingenious yet restrained remodelling of the London home of a leading not-for-profit arts organisation

Works

58
New Court, Trinity College
Oliver Smith assesses the lessons learnt five years after 5th Studio and Max Fordham set out to radically improve the comfort and carbon emissions of a Grade I listed building in Cambridge

68
Ask the expert: timber
Tabitha Binding of Timber Development UK answers readers' questions on timber

70
Materials library
Groupwork founder Amin Taha and project architect Jason Coe explain the guiding principles behind the practice's often innovative and always expressive use of materials

Cover
Narbo Via by Foster + Partners
Photograph by Nigel Young

Architecture today
2022 n°317

Specification

R30928

n° 317 (2022)